Passover, 5781

A New Month — a New Year — that's what Passover is: the celebration of newness. Passover is one of the New Years we celebrate; there is Rosh Hashanah, the beginning of our personal introspection; there is Tu B'Shevat, the beginning of spring and the rebirth of plant life and vegetation; there is Passover, the beginning of our understanding of freedom and the value of life.

And this is a time to remember the past as we commemorate liberation, and also rejoice in the return to the Land of Israel as dreamt by generations past and is remembered each Passover at the seder table.

Passover allows us to discern the value of diversity through our own reasoning capabilities so that we are able to comprehend what freedom is. We also understand freedom a little more each year because freedom is just not breaking the yoke of servitude. There is freedom of thought and expression enabling us to become intellects for a moral encounter with all that society considers ennobling. There is freedom of knowledge allowing us to create sparks which in turn create fires which then cause the warmth of that knowledge to be part of our growing experience.

Each year something new becomes part of my participation in the telling of the story that has held the imagination of all people through the centuries. Every time I read the Haggadah, I learn something different because I feel as though I personally traveled that journey bringing us to this moment in time.

In the past I have watched families reunited. In the past I have watched children smile as they search for the Afikomen. In the past I have watched the faces of mothers and fathers glow as they sit together reliving the past year and the past history of our beginnings. And I have watched grandparents and greatgrandparents "kvell" because they see the generations continue because of their dedication and devotion.

This surely is a holiday of family because the whole family of Israel started a pilgrimage that offered purpose and meaning and fulfillment. And, yet it will be different this year because we are separated, not connected to each other. This year we will truly understand what being together meant as we sit in our respective homes wishing for an end to this nightmare. Maybe we will understand even more what liberation means.

Our community, too, has its legacies of encouragement and fortitude and bravery. We face challenges every day. Now, more than ever, we share a common bond of caring and sharing that makes the journey we are on more bearable and enjoyable. Some have been stricken with COVID, some have survived this ordeal, some have suffered losses.

This year will be a little different as we gather at some table and marvel at our ability to survive another year. We will remember those no longer able to join with us but with a reverence and understanding that they are through the marvels of Zoom giving us the opportunity to be part of the expression of fulfillment even in our despair.

CO-PRESIDENTS' MESSAGE

GERI GOLD & WENDE LEVY

here in spirit because life continues, and we are the testament to the continuation of life. We will mourn, as never before, the hundreds of thousands of our fellow citizens who succumbed to the devastation of coronavirus. We will pray that our country remains the beacon of hope for so many yearning to breathe the breath of freedom. We certainly will pray that we will be able to join together, once more, in the safety and comfort of each other.

These are the messages of Passover — not just redemption and salvation, but a future filled with all the wonders and marvels of each and every day.

As we sit at the seder table, albeit virtually, we will attempt to enjoy the symbols and customs that remind us constantly of our ability to persevere and rejoice. I encourage you to join with me as we present the seder

Chag Sameach — A happy and rewarding Passover to all. 🥰

When I was a child, my family always went to my grandparents' apartment for the Seder. There were at least fourteen people squished around the dining room table that was really intended for about ten. But we carried forth, listening to my grandfather recite every word of the Haggadah in Hebrew. Mind you, none of the children knew how to read a word of Hebrew, and so the Seder seemed interminable. But there were five of us kids and we always ended up having a great time, especially when we looked for the hidden afikomen.

Large gatherings at Passover seem so traditional and tradition is important. Large gatherings are something we will miss this year. Due to the pandemic, we will not be able to hold our own traditional community seder. But we have come up with an SLJC alternative.

On Sunday, March 28, we will observe the second night of Passover with a Zoom service, led by Rabbi Wiener and Cantor Polesky. Thanks to Chompies, we will also offer you the chance to purchase a “Seder-in-a-Box.” Each box will contain matzah, charoset, chicken soup with a matzah ball, a choice of chicken (with matzah stuffing) or brisket (with Pesadich gravy), a choice of roasted potatoes or a potato pancake, glazed carrots, and a slice of sponge cake for dessert. Each box will be priced at $30 and will be distributed for your pick-up at the Chapel Center between 2:30-4 p.m.

Our seder service will begin at 5 p.m., following which you will eat your own seder meal. (For those wanting gefilte fish, we suggest you buy a jar of your own favorite brand. At previous community seders, we have found that most people chose not to eat their portion. Gefilte fish would add significantly to our cost and that is why we are not including it in our box.)

We will be using a Passover Haggadah that you may download for free online at www.BestHagaddah.com. This Haggadah includes introductory remarks and an explanation of the seder plate and what goes on it. If you want to have your own seder plate as you watch and participate in the service, you will have all the information you need. As well, you can provide your own favorite wine (along with grape juice for any children at your table). The Haggadah also includes a few of the favorite Passover songs, both in English and transliterated Hebrew.

As the saying goes, “Next year in Jerusalem,” we all hope that next year we can celebrate together and resume our wonderful tradition of gathering as a community of SLJCers (with families and guests). But for now, we wish you a very happy and healthy Passover.

appointments for covid-19 vaccine

If you have been unable to get an appointment for the COVID-19 vaccine, Arnie Henden has volunteered to help. You must be willing to share with him your Medicare number and your date of birth (which are required for the forms), but you can be sure all information you share with Arnie will be kept strictly confidential.

It is really important that we all get vaccinated as soon as possible for our own good health, the health of the community and the health of our congregation. The websites have been very complicated to navigate, and even some knowledge of a computer has been frustrating. So whether you have a computer or not, please contact Arnie at (480) 895-8851. With one phone call, help will be on the way!

devorah hadassah

Our Ladies Literary Group will meet on Zoom on Wednesday, March 10 at 1:30 p.m. to discuss A Bend in the Stars by Rachel Barenbaum. Then, on Wednesday, March 17, we will be collecting food for Jewish Family and Children's Services.

Our next general meeting (to be held on Zoom) will be on Wednesday, March 24 at 10:30 a.m. Our guest speaker will be Adena Astrowsky, discussing the rise in hate crimes. She is a prosecutor in the Maricopa County Attorney's Office.

The upcoming Flick Chicks date will be announced.

We welcome former Shalom members to join our group. For more information, please contact Ruth Kovac by email at ruth.devorah.had@gmail.com.

We all need to be patient until we can get our two "ouchi Fouchis". Stay well.

friends of israel

Oren Tabib will present a Zoom talk on April 11 at 3:00 p.m. He is President and CEO of Pioneer: One System One Truth, and is a member of the regional board of the Israeli American Council. His topic will be USA: Everything You Wanted to Know.

Quite surprisingly, no one can accurately state how many Israeli citizens reside in the United States. The Israel Foreign Ministry estimates between 300,000-500,000. The Israel American Council through internet polling estimates 600,000 to 800,000. Why are they here? How long do they stay? What is their legal citizen status? Do they integrate into the local Jewish communities? He will answer any other questions you have.

Find out the answers to these and many more questions during Mr. Tabib's talk. Be sure to RSVP to get the Zoom access link. Email "YES" to Israelsunlakes@gmail.com.

lone soldier project

idf lone soldier from uk thwarts stabbing; palestinian attacker killed

An outstanding act of preparedness and heroics reminds us of the vital role Lone Soldiers play in the defense of Israel.

On January 26, Attallah Mohammad Rayyan, age 17, attempted to attack Corporal Lian Harush and her commander while on guard duty at the Gitit Avishar junction. She identified the man as he approached the guard gate, and when the attack began, she was able to knock him back. "He went back and forth between me and my Sgt.Y, trying to stab us." While Harush was fighting the attacker off, Sgt. Y loaded his gun, and shot and killed the attacker.

A recognized hero, Harush said, "This is the kind of thing we prepare for during training, and we will always be ready."

sljc sisterhood

The next meeting of the Sun Lakes Jewish Congregation Sisterhood will be on Thursday, March 18 at 1 p.m. on Zoom. Our guest speaker will be Jackie Wheeler, owner of

JackieStyle — Image and Branding Agency. She has been in business for over 25 years, specializing in personal image (wardrobing, color analysis, body type and personality, skin care and make-up artistry) and online image (social media content and management). Sisterhood members will receive an email with the link. The recent Sun Lakes Jewish Congregation Sisterhood Un-Card Party fundraiser was a huge success, featuring a raffle and gift cards. We thank all of our wonderful donors for their generosity. The response to our call for help from the SLJC and SLJC Sisterhood was truly amazing.

We received incredible support from local businesses and medical organizations. All proceeds were distributed to neighborhood agencies, food banks and non-profit organizations in our community. We are very grateful to all of the people who contributed to this worthy cause. We also congratulate all of the prize winners. See below for a complete listing of donors and prize winners.
